JULIE ELLITT

PHOTOGRAPHER OF MAGIC MOMENTS

An underwater portrait of a woman, likely Julie Ellitt, looking directly at the camera. Her face is partially obscured by a dense layer of small, white bubbles that are rising from her mouth. The background is a deep blue, slightly out of focus, suggesting an underwater environment. The lighting is soft, highlighting the contours of her face and the texture of the bubbles.

PHOTOGRAPHER OF MAGIC MOMENTS

I began my photography career at 16. I found it was a way for me to express myself instead of words written or spoken. Growing up with Dyslexia I felt powerless and alone. The camera gave me a voice.

Photography and creating art has played a huge role in my life.

I used to think the only way to show my art was in a art gallery. I have also discovered that galleries can often be intimidating to the uninitiated. My research tells me that an art gallery can be a foreign place to most. There are many people who have never stepped inside one. I realise that licensing my work is another way of extending my reach and enables my work to be seen by a larger audience.

My work is about capturing magic moments that we can all be a part of. We should all have access to those moments. They become fond memories and mark our life path. Be it a magic sunset or a crystal clear wave, I want to present my vision to the world at large. Art licensing presents the perfect opportunity to do this.

I will always photograph, it is something I can't live without. I love it.

Everyone should get the chance to witness the magic of life. Through my camera lens I want to share with others my view and celebrate for the beauty of the world we live in.

A silhouette of a person standing on a dark rock in the ocean. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds. The water is dark blue with some white foam from waves.

RETRO BEACH

A close-up of water splashing, creating a misty, golden-hued spray. The water is in motion, with many droplets visible, and the background is a soft, out-of-focus blue.

NATURAL WONDERS

A close-up of a dense field of purple flowers. In the foreground, a single orange flower is visible, slightly out of focus. The background is filled with many small purple flowers.
