A line, a line, and then, another line. This is how my practice starts. I am never sure what I will end up with. My art is not preconceived, but is a result of the flow of a brush, a pen, a pencil, whatever I have on hand. It is very spontaneous and extremely meditative.

I have drawn since I could hold a pen and have been a designer for over 20 years. I draw/sketch everyday and sometimes, with the aid of a computer, these doodles become works of art. I use the computer like I use a pen, it is part of the creative process, but my work always starts off the screen.

I often see faces/characters in my mark making and I am compelled to bring what I see out. Sometimes they are happy, but often more thought provoked. Why? I am not sure. I have grown not to ask that question; it is for you the viewer to ask, not of me, but of what you see.

Since relocating to Tropical North Queensland after living in big cities around the world, I have seen a shift in my work. It has become more organic, more like landscapes. The environment that now surrounds me has had a marked impact on my work, much like my years spent in Asia did many years ago.

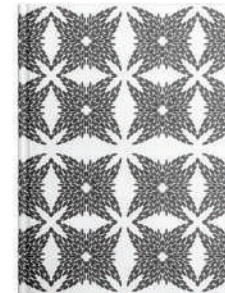

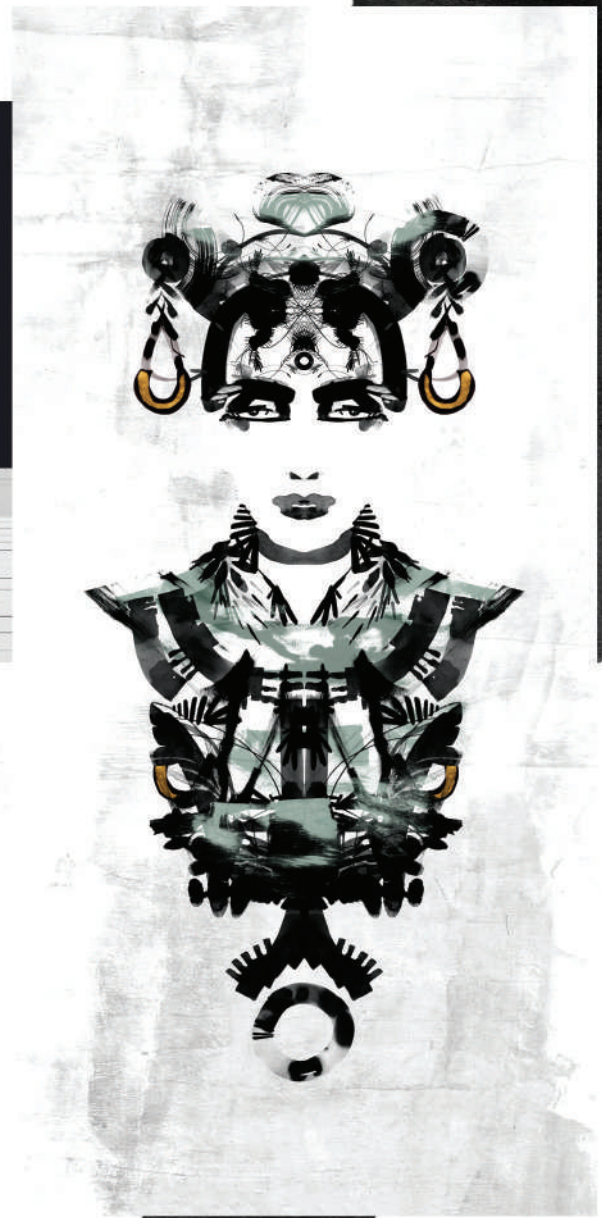

I welcome this new influence and now find the most important aspect of my work is not the content, but more the flow, the strength, the subtlety of my line and the composition.

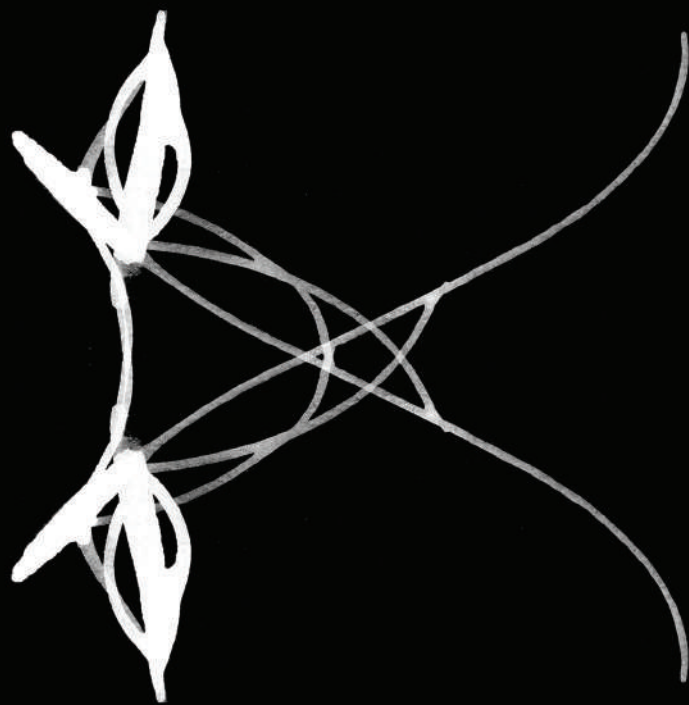

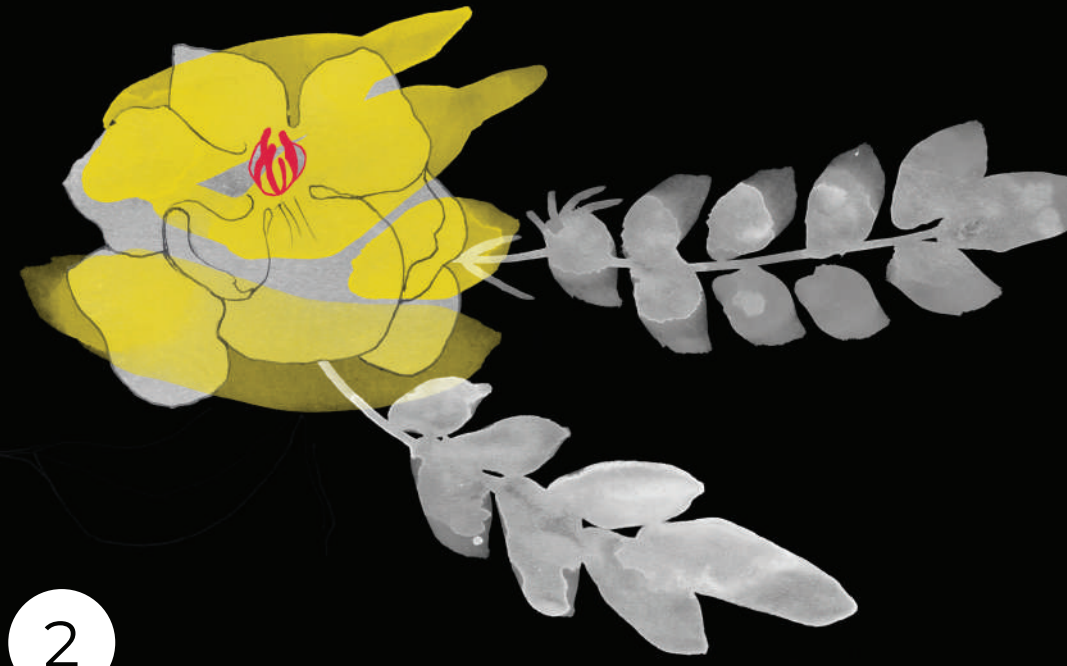

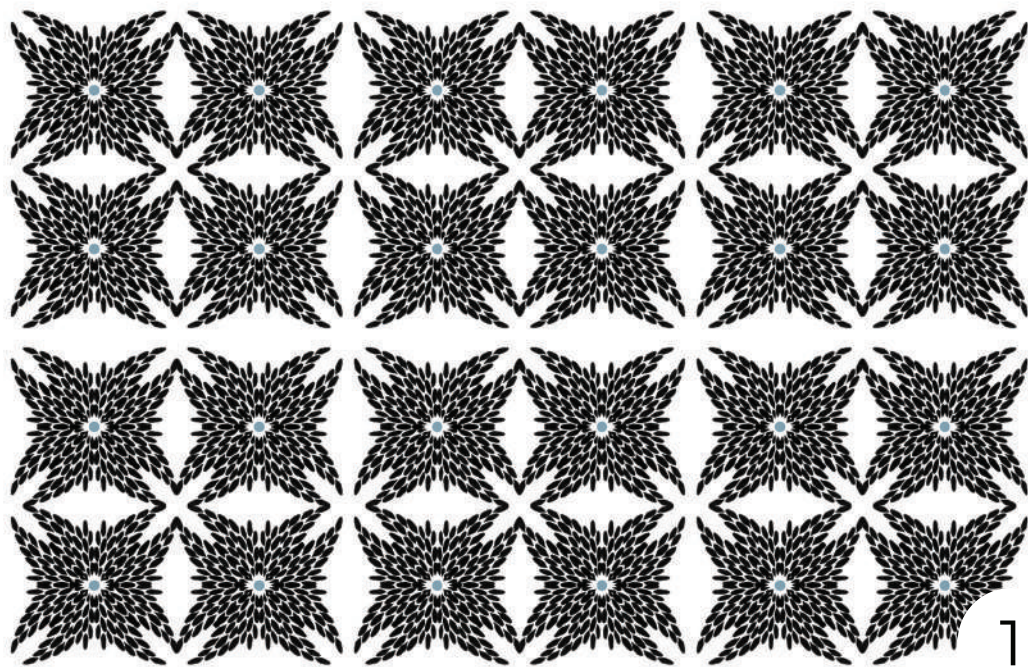

I am currently embarking on fashion and interior design ideas I have had for over 20 years. I have named my label 'Pattern By Design'. Technology now allows me to put my artwork onto different surfaces with ease. It is an exciting time.
