An exotic world full of
DELICACIES & DELIGHT

GABBY MALPAS

I am a graduate of the Otago School of Fine Arts, Dunedin NZ, working in watercolour on paper and canvas.

I have been working chiefly in 'liquid' colour since leaving art school and consider myself a self-taught watercolourist. As a trained potter I consider watercolours a natural progression from glazes. Crisp lines are prevalent in my work. The liquidity of watercolour is negotiated delicately with images built up through layers of washes, and shading achieved through careful application of paint. The overall effect is a restful escapism for the eye.

My work could be interpreted as decorative but I weave stories into my paintings based on my life experience as trans-racial, Chinese adoptee with engaging and lavish imagery. Many of my images are of things I have found in Sydney: a joyful and chaotic assemblage of blooms and fruit arranged in a variety of Chinese ceramics but with a narrative that draws the viewer in for a second look.

My images are a true amalgamation of European and Chinese aesthetics making them truly unique works of art.

I am an exhibiting artist and have exhibited worldwide since 1987, and licensing art since 2011.
